will be a costly experiment. It will bring widespread discontent. It will revolutionize values. It will take away maje than one-half of the carning capacity of brain and brawn. Worse than all that, it will take away from the people of this country who work for a living—and the majority of them live by the aweat of their faces—it will take away from them beart and hope and home. It will be self-destruction. Free trade results in giving our manufactures and our markets to other nations. Protection keeps money, markets and manufactures at home.

The control of the co products of the larm are sont to define trait towns which would not be raised at all but for the demand which they make What the farmers want are consumers, and the more consumers are fewer competitors he has the better will be his profits, and he wants these consumers steady and regular and at all times reliable. He has such in the 65,000,000 consumers in this country who are the best are most profitable consumers to be found anywhere on the globe. He is sure of them, while his foreign market is fitful, far removed, less certain, and dependent upon agricultural conditions in the loreign countries, whether there is a short crop or a long crop. There we has competition, here he has practically the field, with little or no competition except with his own fellow-citizens.

As illustrating the difference is value between the domestic consumer and the foreign consumer, I have but to state thist the workingman in the American shop consumes more than $50 worth of agricultural products annually of the American consumes less than 55 of American serioultural products annually of the American consumes less than 55 of American ensures the end of the farmer here than is the foreign workingman consumes less than 55 of American ensures to take the foreign to the farmer here than is the foreign workingman. The Democratic Eader of today seems to thick there is some pocular sanctity shoult the foreign consumer than the foreign consumer than has more more, and has more more, in the world.

Wednesday Afternoon a large number of citizens gathered in East Market Square in case the represensatives of the Miller fire extinguisher give an exhibition of what their apparatus will do. A bemporary building, with three sides, 12 feet high was serected. This was filled with 180 feet of soft pine strips, standing on end and stuffed with inflammab e material. The whole was saturated with kerosaen and set on fire. The flames leaped high in an instant and made it very hot in the vicinity. When the mass was fully ablane, a luy stream from the extinguisher in the hands of a man twenty or more fact luray, was thrown on the fire. In about the seconds there was not a vertice of fire or smoke.

Another test was then made. The fire about 19 seconds the whole was extinguisher with remarkable case.

To the City Council of the City of Bangor, Gentlemen:
The special committee on city hall have, since the leat necting of the city government (which was called to hear a progressive report of said committee) spared no palos to obtain such facts and information as, it seems to us, will amply satisfy every citizen of Bangor.
Fire—That the city has a legal right to the use of the fund, and Sec.nd—That the City Hall can be built within the amount of the fund.
Learning as we did by the argument at the last meeting, that even those who opposed the method, would gladly aid in the enterprise of building a new city hall whenever we were able to show them that we bould legally use the Herzey fund for that purpose, and show that the find is ample therefor, we have been very dillegently at work putting the matter in such stage as seems to us must meet the unqualified approval of every one.
We are able to present to you to-night the legal opinions of some of the leading lawyers of the city, and in no single instance have we found a lawyer who says the city cannot legally use the Herzey fund to build a new City Hall.
For instance, here is the written o binion of one of Bangor's most prominent leavers, and a gentleman who probably should be had in the respective boards. The two boards then separated. In Board of Aldermen. The question of the acceptance of the report being brought up Alderman Taney For instance, here is the written o Milon of one of Bangor's most prominent lawyers, and a gentiemen who probably hand es more trust funds than any institution in the city, and for that reason his opinion is very valuable on the subject. It is as follows: Alderman V ckery said that this action of the committee n making their report was of a most extraodinary character and of the same character which had attended is as follows.

Hon. F. O. Beal, Mayor of Bangor:

"In order to answer your question as to the right of the city to appropriate the principal of the Hersey trust fund to the crection of a city building as proposed by you n your recent message, I have care fully examined the language of General Hersey's will, and also the statute bearing on the subject, and the following is the recity of my investigation: not think any such plan ought to be adopted. Under it the hall would cost $100,600 and might cost $200,000. He thought we should take time to consider this thing and give every citizen a chance to examine the plans and give their opinion in regard to it. He said he was op uit.of my investigation:
By the terms of the will there is no renulrement or condition annexed to the posed to building a City Hall at the pres ny the terms of the will there is no re-quirement or condition annexed to the gift to control in any respect the invest-ment of the fund or dause. The gift is general to the city, in trust, and the only limitation or condition annexed to the de-vise is as to the appropriation or man of out time as we did not need it and could not afford it. He contended that no opin ion could be had from the Supreme Cour without a suit in equity and that would limitation or condition annexed to the devise is as to the appropriation or use of the income. That is specific to a certain extent, the principal being followed no farther than into the city treasury. What is to be done with it is for the city to decide, the only requirement being implicitly that it must be so used, invested or otherwise breated, as to earn an income, to be applied to the promotion of education, health or good morals, according to bring a law suit on our hands. He wa not afraid this scheme was going to suc ceed as it was conceived in in quity, bor in corruption and doomed to a dishono

Alderman Taney replied and criticize the statements of the gentleman from plied to the promotion of education, health or good morals, according to the language of the will. The principal is left entirely to the city to care for, its responsibility and liability being the only security that exists to ensure the safety of the fund, and make sure the rights of those who, as cosinis, are to receive its benefits. So far as the will goes the city has the same right to use the money thus entrusted as it has to use any other money in its treasury from taxes or Ward Six and said the matter of building a new City Hall was not a sudden affa but has been the subject of discussion both by the citizens and the press. did not like to have members improper motives or iniquitous acts. By the Revised Statutes Chap. 3, Section 51, it is expressly provided that any city or town may receive money in trust in for such purposes as are described in the Hersey will, provided the city or town legally consents, as the city has done here. This settles the matter so far as to have the city a legal holder of the money as trustes. The next, or 52nd section distinctly settles the only remaining question in the case, its language being as follows:

"Interest shall be allowed if the fund is shall be placed on interest or income, the city or town being responsible for its shall be placed on interest or income, the cury or town being responsible for its shall be allowed. The city may use the fund for any lawful purpose such as is proposed here, it being is sponsible for its security, and by the express terms of the proposed police station. Work on the B. & A. Road Progressing Rapidly.

September. The directors of the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad Company held a meeting in this city yesterday at which President A

A. Burleigh, of Houlton, was present and presided. The meeting was held for the purpose of making arrangements for the signing of the mortgage to secure the issue of the bonds and for talking over the affairs of the company in general. President Burleigh reports that the work along the line is progressing rapidly and in an entirely satisfactory manner. The contractors from the West are hustters and they have been so long engaged in railroad construction that they know just what to do in the most advantageous way. Not only that, but they are provided with first-class apparatus. They have just received at Houlthe wheeled scrapers which are new and of the latest They will very materially pattern. ald in the work. The experienced contractors are working their at a rapid rate, due attention being of course paid to substantial results at same time. The men who are not so well posted in railroad construction are flust learning at the points and the work is going along nicely both at Brownville and Houlton. Clearing up the land and grading form the present labor and at the Houlton end the crews have got along as far as Island Falls.

Columbian Postage Stamps The Columbian year which extends from the early fall of 1802 to the fall of 1893, will be celebrated in many was a by the government

Of course the principal means of commemorating the discovery will be the great World's Fair at thicage, but many other minor methods will be employed, The latest one is announced as a new series of postage stamps. The saue will include all values and will bear designs of an historic character, each representing some incident in the life of Columbus, or picturing something appropriate to its nurnose of commemoration. have been adopted by the Postmaster General, and will probably be issued next

The question is asked why the paeless thirty and ninety cent stapips which represent no current single or double rate of postage should be included in this issue They are simply used on were heavy registered foreign packages and it is argued were simply a twelve cent stamp for ordinary letter rate and registration and twenty-five-cent, fifty-cent, and one-dollar stamps for use on extra heavy packages The thirty and ninety cent stamps are has of the old high postal rates of 1860

She herself had left the blinds, door and curtains open as she came in from the moonlit gallery, had turned out her lamp and descended the stairs. The gallery doorway could not be seen from where she fell, and as all was darkness in the room itself, how could sue have seen any one?

Out on the gallery, of course, any one would have been revealed, thanks to the brilliancy of the full moon, almost as in the broad glare of day; but one had to he at the hall door or in the square room itself in order to see the gallery at all, and lite declared, as before, that she had not reached the door. What she fanced was a ghost, bathed ms pale, cold light, was probably the white curtains of the rear windows. But the light—whence

The front room on the east was unoccupied Nita had chosen the other because of that gallery and its Then there was the rear slope of the man roof above the gal-lery. That, thought Holden, might have offered a why off escape, because it was out of sight from the parade But Brewster and Randolph had both essayed to reach the caves, and even when standing on the rathing could bare-ly touch them with the tips of their fingers. Then, again, a sentry walked along the edge of the slope leading to the river bottom south of the long row of officers' quarters and close behind the rear fence, but he was at the eventful ent well down the row beyond Haz lett's house, whereas Dr Holden's was at the eastern end of the line The moon shone full against the back fence, said the sentry, and he was sure he would the sentry, and he was sure he would have seen anybody who ran out of the gate of the doctors yard, and the first who appeared were the searching officers, Corporal Murphy with them. Several men had them come running from the direction of the laundresses quarters to the west, and after them Servert When Lord it who Ellies who geant line. No, the sentry on the south post was confident that no man came out of Hoiden's yard until he got to the gate, whither he had run the instant he heard the cry He thought it might be a lamp explosion or a fire, and he was watching with eager eyes. He had been on post nearly two hours when the slarm came, and, except Corporal Murphy and the quartermaster's men who took the trunks, he had not seen or who took too a time, as are the seek the heard a man about the premises. "I was simply wondering how any man could the position of the problem of the problem. have ventured in there this bright night and expected to get out massen, es-pecially early n the evening, when men are passing to and fro all the time."

What made you think any one had "Wist made you think any one had been there?" asked the captain quietly.
"Everybody has heard by this time that there was a search made, and that the young lady had seen something to frighten her. Beendes, Sergeant Ellis spoke of it to me an hour ago."
"What was the sergeant doing on your post at micaight? "Wky, sir, the esptain remembers Sergeant Ellis is in charge of the fire-

He came out a httle verore twelve and said he'd lost his per pipe while he was hunting arounc with Lieutenant Brewster after around with Lieutenant Brewster after he brought the ladder, and I let him pass in, sir. He said he'd been working there long after tape, and it would be all right. He found the pipe, sir, right at the sige of the wood pile, yonder. He showed it to me as he came out."

Captain Rolfe was silent a moment. Ordinately none of the enlisted men had any right to be away from quarters after he "lights out" signal, but this case was unusual. Furthermore, Ellis was a man superior in intelligence, a sergeast of more than a year's standing, and one who had been selected for that especial duty for the very reason that, holding binnelf much aloof from the average run of the rank and file, he would be apt to attend strictly to his duties as custodian of the fire house, and one had ever heard of his abusing his trust. His own little room was modellof nestness when the command-ing obser made his monthly inspection of the garrison, and the hose carriage, the heek and ladder truck, the first buckets and other apparatus were al-ways in perfect order and readiness for ways in perfect order and readiness for service. No one ever inspected Ellis' quarters at any other time. The guard often inticed his light after midwight, and he had the reputation of being a good deal of a reader and student, tak-ing bushs from the post library very often, hesides owning quite a number of his own.

Sporting characters in the regument who sought to borrow from Ellis met with cold, even curt, refusal. Neither would he ever gamble or bet with them. Neither did he seem to care to go to town at all when first the regiment moved into this its most delightfu station after years of service on the distant frontiar—not until the order was usued permitting mento-rious soldier to wear civilian dress when on pass. Then he was almost the first to appear on the streets of the bustling county seat in a neat, unobtrusive, but reif arkably well out and well fitting suit, and, far better dressed than most of the tewnspeople, Sergeant Ellis became an occasional visitor, but no one ever heard of his patronizing any other establishments than the bank, the post and express offices and the boozstores Captain Haglett, calling at the post-

It was finally conceded, however, that in courteously raising his hat Sergeant Ellis had done about the right thing and that in as punctili onsly raising his own in recognition the captain had fittingly and scrapplously acknowledged the courtesy, the sneers and lashings of the Spasm City Chimes to the contrary notwithstanding.

Still no one supposed that Ellis was going to re-enliet when his time expired. They had already begin casting about for someody ellis to place in charge of

There is hardly any doubt now that both were inurdered. The daughter of the unfortunate couple was first to make the discovery. She went upstairs after finding the body of her father, and saw the form of her mother in her chamber. She thought she had fallen in a swoon but upon finding that she too was dead the girl field downstairs and fainted. The police have searched in vain for any cipe to the murderer! They are after a Portuguese who runs the Borden (arm, at Gardiner's Neck, and who, it is said, was in the house at 10 45, a few minutes before the bodies were discovered. It is reported that word was sent to Mrs. Borden this morning that a sick friend desired to see her to-day, that a sick friend desired to see her to but she did not go out. It is said the servant, Bridget Sullivan, says she went into the room to make some inquiry of Mr. Borden about five minutes before Lizzle Borden, his daughter, gave the alarm. He was ther setting on the sofa reading a newspaper.

London, Aug. 4 A Vienns corre-pondent of the Standard says Count Katthe D mock, exhibited his log book, which showed the steamer was creeping through the fox at a very low rate of speed when the collision took place. He heard no signals before the time of the collision, no white or bell. Just before the collision, no white or bell. Just before the collision, no white or bell. Just before the collision he saw a shadow ahead and someone sung out, 'vessel right ahead" and the engines were mmediately reversed. The witness had never before seen a vessel anchored anywhere near that spot. In order to have good, safe anchorage out of the track the Alva would had to have gone one n ile from where she was.

FRESHA, Cal., August 4. A passenger train, southbound, was held up by four masked robbers, six miles east of Collis last aight. Two of the robbers crawled over-the train. They made the engineer and fireman to stopthe train. They made the engineer walk ahead quarter of a mile and compelled the frigman to stay with them. They then what to the engineer car, and ordered the messenger to open the car. He refused and the robbers threw six or seven dynamine bombs at the open safe and took out the money. The amount is not known. They compelled the fireman to help them carry the treasure for some distonce and then jumped on horses and galleped off. Preminent Leaders Cheered.

London, Aug. 4 The new Parliament reassembled at two this afternoon with the usual ceremony. The proceedings to-day, will be purely formal and no business will be transacted until next week As Joseph Chamberlain, Mr. Halfour and other prominent members entered the champer they were heartily cheered. Mr. Gladstone made his appearance in the House soon after fo'clock and was given a wildly enthusiastic reception. Itish members rose in a body shrieking and waving their hats and cheering, and they were olned in these demonstrations by the Liberals. The evation to the Liberal leader lasted several shimutes. When Gladstone had taken his seat he was surrounded by a crowd of members of the House, irrespective of party, all anxious to congrunate and shake his had. A motion that Hon. Maj. J. Olmsted, of Los Angeles, Cal., who was Assistant Provost Marshal General of St. Louis, in 1864, under Provost Marshal General Sanderson, proves the connection of Adlai E. Stevenson with the Order of the Golden Circle, which connection is just now being so vigorously refuted by the Democratic press of the country. This order was a secret association of sympathizers with the Southern cause who did not wish to publicly establiah their relation to the Rebellion, but at the same time desired to counsel and aid its interests. It started in the South and gradually worked its way North among the "Copperheads," and was recognized, next to the armies in the field as being the oost dangerous affair the Covernment had

I started out in St. Louis to do some detective work on this order. I went to a hotel where I knew a number of its members were stopping, and I fell in with an old gentleman whose confidence I won and who introduced me into a meeting of the supreme holding its sessions in the garret of the hotel. The draft was a that time going on, and this meeting had decided to resist They were going to seize the arsenal of the city, and everybody arm themalves with gone and ammunition, and Price's army, which was about twenty miles distant, was to march on the town at the instant of the seizure and help thens. If they failed in their project of setzure they were to turn the city. A failure was possible, for Rosecrans' army was about two days' trarch distant. . I communicated these facts, and the grand master, who was the Belgian con-gul of New York, and the grand secretary, one Harrison, were both arrested. They were blindfolded and g ven a chance for their lives if they would disclose all the facts connected with the order. They did so and among the effects of the coner a we captured was he moster of the order containing 37,000 names, and on it, from Gresham. Stevenson's town in Himois, appeared his name. Darlight. DECEMBER NEWS ST. PRISORAPS SEE PROPERTY A Grand and Varied Round of Promision Citizen and His Wife The World's Fair Bill Hangs Fire Murdered.

J. Bords a and wife, two of the oldest, wealthist and most highly respected persons a this city were brutally murdered with an axe a: 11 b'elock this morning, at their home on Second street, within a minute's walk of the City Hall and central business section. The circumstances are most supprising and shocking, and no trace of the murderer, or weapon can be found. The Borden family consisted of father, mother, two daughters and a servant. An older daughter has been at Fairhaven some days. About eight o'clock this morning Mrs. Boden received a note asking her to viait a friend. Reception to Baron Strove the ndence of Whig and Courier.] BAR HARBOR, Aug. 4. Soe left her house and shortly afterward her hurband followed and walked down the street to one of the banks. He returned stout 10.80 and sat on the sofa. In answer to a question from the servant he said he was feeling very well. The servant, Bradget Sullivan, then went outside the house to wash windows. In the meantime, Miss Lizzie Borden, the caughter, rose from her bed and walked dow stairs, seeing and speaking to her father as she passed through the room, she supposed he mother was out. She went into the yard and stepped into the barn. While there Who Wm Ill coming apparently from the house She ran in and went directly to the slitting room leading from the main hallway in the house, and saw har father lying back on the sofa, covered with blood and lifects. She ran out shricking and her cries attracted the servant and a neighbor. They made a heaty search for the mother and found her up stars in the spare bedroom, lying dead, face downward on the floor. The women summoned Dr. Howen, who lives opposite, and he found both victims beyond medical assistance. Officer Alleri arrived early and became so excited that he ran at once with an incoherent attry to the police station.

A BunH Pesse of Police surrounded the house in a short time and were busy keeping back the hoat of business men and car outly seekers, who throaged Second street, attracted by the tragedy Medical Examiner Doian was on the scene within half an hour. Le found Mr. Borden's head tacked to pieces in a horrible manner. There were seven long gashes on the face and skull, some an inch and a half deep through the feah and bone. When Mrs. Borden was first seen it was supposed she had died from heart disease, to which she had been subject. 'A reporter first noticed blood in her hair and when the bed near which she was lying had been drawn away it was seen she had been frightfully battered about face and skull.

Morning, noon and night sees a merry throng there, for lines, dinner concert or ball. The Satuiday night tops are the most attractive in point of elegance, although those of Wednesday are largely attended and will, be more so as the month progresses. The hotel hops, toc, are great succeedes, although they are for the most part informal.

Dr J Seward Webb and Mr. Creighton Webb are entertaining large parties of friends nearly every day on thieir yacht. Elfreda, which lies out in the stream. Yesterday Mayloyeni Bey was the guest of honor. The iquadron has not put in an appearance and the keenest disappointment is beard on every side at its delay.

The annual tensis tougament at Mossley Hall will open on the lith. Mr. Allerton Cushman, Mr. James W. Gerard, Jr., and the harder. Mr. Barden is said to be practicing with the racket and ball nearly all of his waking hours, having taken the cup for two years and naturally wishing to capture it this season, thereby making it his own.

Washington, Aug. 4. A joint resolution, extending up to and including the sting law as to appropriations for the House and atter some discussion passed. A message was received from the House announcing that the House insisted on its disagreement to the Senate amendment to the Senate amendment to the Senate announcing that the House insisted on its disagreement to the Senate amendment to the Senate adjourned till 3 o'clock to morfor.

Mr. Catchings, of Mississippi, rose to a market of the policy of the provisions of the policy of the provisions of the public to use the highway, he must republic service, was received from the House announcing that the House insisted on its disagreement to the Senate amendment of the public to use the highway and when the plaintiff down on the bighway and when the plaintiff complained of this testment to the Duke's con, Lord Edward Manuers, the latter reson, Lord Edward Manuers, the latter resonance of the Marrell Liquor Cure (This, the Lord Chief Justice said, could not be tolerated from any person, Duke or other.

Mf. Catchings, of Mississippi, rose to a privileged report from the Committee on Rules. It provides that to-day it shall be in order for the Speaker to entertain motions to suspend the rules as on the first and third Mondays. This was adopted without controversy.

Mr. Holman, of Indiana, immediately moved to suspend the rules and pass the join resolution extending until Aug 10th, the appropriations made by the sundry civi. appropriation bill of last year, agreed to without opposition.

Mr. Holman then moved to suspend the rules and pass the resolution that the House shall reconsider the vote by which the House receded from the World's Fair amendment and that the House further insist upon us disagreement and that the ame nouse received from the World's Fair amendment and that the House further insist upon its disagreement and that the bill be sent to a conference.

The motion was received with a good desi of excitement. The Republicans wished an explanation of the agreement reached by the Democratic party yesterday, and when it was read, as published in the papers this morning, there was an expression of feeling—hat it meant nothing. Henderson, of Illinois, characterized it as partaking so nething of the tuyl-tation of the spider to the fly to walk into his parior

Mr Dingley, of Maine, voiced the general opinion of the Republicans that the Democratic assume the whole responsibility He did not believe that any action would be taken towards passing the Dur-would be taken towards passing the Durborow bill.

The sundry civil bill has been sent to to conferer ce by a vote of yeas 141, nays 40. A motion to suspend the rules and pass a resolution providing that a vote shall be taken on the Durborow bill, at 1 e'clock to-morrow was agreed to without serious opposition and amid applause. The House then proceeded to the consideration of the Duborow bill, and Mr. Reilley's substitute therefore. The substitute maker an outright appropriation of $2,500,000 Mr. Pickler moved to increase the sum appropriated for the fair to $5,000,000 The amendment was lost, as was an amendment offered by Mr. Dickerson, of Centucky, striking out the appropriation.

amendment offered by Mr. Dickerson, of Kentucky, striking out the appropriation

Mr. Attanson, of Pennisylvania, offered at amendment prohibiting the sale of intexicating liquous on the fair grounds.

Mr. Pierler, of South Dakota, moved to amend the amendment by providing that hereafter no intoxicating liquors be sold in the House restaurant of the capicol. (Laughte) Is view of the late investigation, said Mr. Pickler, this amendment was absolutely proper. Self-preservation was the first law of nature and certainly the memiers of he House ought to preserve themselves. He offered the amendment in all seriousness.

Mr Burler, of lows, did not like the gentleman from South Dakota to go on precord in this abape. The gentleman had spoken of self preservation. He did not think the gentleman required any self preservation in this shape. He was fired of the talk abous "cold lea". For eight years he had been in this House, and hever had been 'mong in assemblage of gentleman from South Dakota knew any-hing about tippling at the bar let him have the practice broken up

Mr Pickler disclaimed any knowledge on the subject and suggested that the gentleman might look for information to the testimony taken by the special investigating committee.

Mr. Bachanan, of New Jersey, replied that the sommit se had not taken a line of testimony in regard to the existence of a feet leatment in regard to the existence of a feet leatment in regard to the existence of a feet leatment in regard to the existence of a feet leatment in regard to the existence of a feet leatment in regard to the existence of a feet leatment in regard to the existence of a feet leatment in regard to the existence of a feet leatment in regard to the existence of a feet leatment in regard to the existence of a feet leatment in regard to the existence of a feet leatment in regard to the existence of a feet leatment in regard to the existence of a feet leatment in regard to the existence of a feet leatment in regard to the existence of a feet leatment in regard to the

that the commit ee had not taken a line of testimony in regard to the existence of a bar in the basement of the House. Mr. O'Neil, of Missouri,—Let ever man make a faw unto himself. Mr. Buchanan—Some are too weak to mr. Dictional Solution and the Mose, but I am inclined the think now there was Mr. Henderson, of Iowa,—I think the gentleman's words ought to be taken down. (Laughber).

"Where was the Speaker at", queried Mr. Simpson, of Kansas Mr. Butler suggested that Mr Buchanan in assuming that liquor was sold in the thouse, insulted the House.

Mr. Pickler's amendment was withdrawn and Mr. Atkinson's defeated.
Mr. Breckluridge, of Arkansas, offered an amendmen providing that all articles imported for the exhibition shall have plainly marked on them in denominations of American money, the price at have plainly marked on them in openome attest, forthand matter and the markets from which they sold in the markets from which they sold in the markets from which they were imported, without the addition of the tariff or other charges of a like character. The amendment was disagreed to. The committee arose and the House adjourned.

food. Her mother could not nurse the little one, and the doctor tordered one of the oldest and most wikely advertised artificial foods; but Bessie refused to take it. The doctor then recommended lactated food, and the baby liked it, thrived as well as on mother's milk, and was the pleture of health while living upon it. Later, when ahe was a little over two years old, the was taken with a severe attack of choiers infantum, and was so low that life was despaired of.

Lactasted food was given, and all other resurrishment stopped, and she accorplicated up, gaining flesh rapidly, and is to-day, as the photograph shows, a picture of perfect health. I have advised many of my friends to use lactated food, and, it has never yet failed to do all that is claimed for it."

Infants fed on lactated food suffer less and fewer ile than those fed on any other. Mothers should thoroughly understand what this factated food is, how pare and hourshing and how successfully it meets rature's requirements. Mesers, W. E. Russ and Joseph Hodgden made a trip to Chemo Pond, Wednes-day and returned with forty-two fine fith. This poold is getting popular both as a fashing place and a summer resort, and quite a number of people are spending more or less time there, in addition to those who make short piscatorial trips.

Yesterday afternoon there was quite a breeze on the river, and it was excellent for sailing boats, which favorable circumstance for indulging in this pastime was taken advantage of by those who w shed to. The water was somewhat rough and those who crossed in the ferry got a little sample of wave motion at Measurements have been taken for the new sewer on Main street, at Bridge bill. It is to enter the Center street system and yesterday the work was to ascertain whether or not it would drain the cellars of the houses close to the railroad brack. If it was found that it would do so, the owners of the land were to have the digg ng begun as soon as possible. The propretors of the property which will be benefited by the new sewer, are to pay the expense of building it, and it will be constructed under the direction of the sewer board of the City Council.

which was held in Bangor, and there will mer. There have been various reasons probably be nothing to arouse the feeling of friendly rivalry with teams of other towns to the extent that it reached in 1891. Trouble over the racing Catringer was one cause of the, at least partial, breaking up of the Deluge running team and with one exception, the Eagles of South Brewer, no great interest has been shown by the other companies. Jome me nor amateur teams that developed last year have disapeared, and now a4 the companies that have racing carts and have trained for contests are the Ragles and the Segennkedunks of South Brewer.

Be if known to the reader that paternalism is rampent in the land—that while peace societies and Indian rights associations and prayerful congregations away at the A lamic seaboard are deliging the press with distribes upon the wiongs of the red man and the criminal neglect of the nation, and declaring that

Oh, if the truth could ever reach the ears of the general public what tales of Indian sagacity might not yet be in store for them! What annuls might not be un-folded! Dealing with his own, his white children, who are nonvoters, Uncle Sam serves out one ration a day to each en-lasted soldier.

The wife and the lads and lasses that tumbled about the married men's quarters in the query old days were all to be fed from that one ration, unless, per-chance, mamma was a laundress. But coance, mamma was a nauncess. But when dealing with the wronged and injured red man he could not be too magnammons. Every head counted. Night after night all over the broad northweat the skies were aglow with the Indian fires. The vault of the heavens echoed to the sound of freuzied shriek and yell and the furious beat of the Indian drium. It is but a step from the ghost dance to the scalp dance—from Indian worship to Indian war. A year ago in every valley of beautiful South ago in every valley of beautiful South Dakota cattle were browsing on the bunch grass, settlers plowing on the bunch grass, settlers plowing on the plains, women sewing and singing under the new raised roof-trees, and gleeful children playing in the golden heaps of corn. Now the p ow stands idle in the abandoned furrow; the cattle have gone, to make up, presumably, for the reservation shrinkage; women's songa have changed to sobs, children's laughter hushed to terrified silence, as the settlers seek the refuge of the towns. He could not bear to tall his assurance. gut him home. He could not bear to tell his people, in the happiest garrison the regiment had ever known, that perhaps it might be as well to drop the plans for the cavatry ball and the Christmas theatricals, the cherished projects for the coming, holidays. He hated to have any one ask him if he thought there were not just a chance—just a chance—of their hears ordered. just a chance—of their being ordered up there. But even before he left he and Bernen had been talking the matter over. The idea was to always have the regiment ready for anything, and it did seem as though with all the sum-mer and fall marching and scouting and maneuvering in the field they were, as the Englishmen would say, "pretty fit." Fit, certainly, for any amount of scont-Fit, certainly, for any amount of sconting or fighting on the southern plains, and yet utterly imprepared for the rigors of a Dakota winter. Any colonel who, serving in Arriona of in the Indian Territory, was to apply for canvas overcoats, blanket lined, for fur caps, gloves, boots, leggings, etc., intended only for service in the high latitudes, would have been laugher, at, if not would have been laugher at, if not snuhbed. Farquhar cecided it best not to let any of the women worry over a possibility. No use borrowing trouble, he said. Long years and the regiment served in that wintry land. Fierce and incessant had been its campaigns against the Indians. Due had been its sufferings and losses. Only recently—only within the year—had they reached the paradise, with its havy landscape, its lovely, peaceful homes, its kindliness

The maddest man at mess at one-thirty was Mr. Carroll Brewster—"Curly B" his comrades called him in the years gone by, when he had much kink to the blond hair of his han some head, and not a vestige thereof to the down on his hp. Now, as first lieutenant or the "Black Troop," with a mustache all bristle and curl, and with a pate where the companion of the companion. on the curls were cropped to regulation lines, he was a very different sort of fel-low. All the morning long he had eat on a garrison court, where as "ewin member" he had not mough to do to keep him from broading over his woes. He had counted on spending the hours from two until stables hashing in the light of those wonderful, deep, dark eyes of Miss Winfred Berrien. Somewhat petted and spoiled in his earlier years of service, Brewster and had much of the nonsense knocked cut of him in the harsh experiences of seven years in the saddle with a regiment rehowned for its touch-and-go sort of work. He had steadied greatly in those years, part of the process being due to less own latent good sense, and not a littue thereof to increase striving on the range to win high honors as a sharpshooter, and to day there was not a first backing soldier. mgn noners as a anarparaceer, and to-day there was not a kner kooking soldier wearing the broad yellow stripes in the Twelfth than this same explandy "Ourly Browster."

There still lingered about him a cer-tain reputs for self constitutions, if not for actual conceit, but 40 and grown to for actual conceit, but so and grown to be thoroughly respected in the regiment and was vanily popular with the men. There was one man with whom Brew-ster was at odds, a sentiment due to an old difference when both were younger, old difference when both were younger, and that was Rolfe. There we one man the gallant major especially liked and swore by, and that was Rolfe. These facts, added to the coincidence that the captain had never forgotzen the hot words used by his second lier tenant long years before, made a comb-nation unfortunate for a fellow se much in love as was Carroll Brewster.
On this particular morning he had striven to hurry matters through on the court—to try three or four cases where the accused were mly too ready to plead guilty and "throw themselves in the mercy," etc., and then adjourn on the specious plea of giving the judge advocate time to write up the proceedings. But the president of the tribunal had other views and held him. Hoswister knew that Kandolph and Hunt and Ridgeway, perhaps others, had taken advantage of the weather and no drill to slip over to Berrien's for a bitthe morning hour with the glals. He could imagine that pretty parlors with its pictures and pano, its attractive cartains and portnerse, the group of bright sweet faces, the animated chat, Wimfred her-self, in her dark, rich beauty, seated at the piano, with Ridgeway hanging over her, eager to form the leaves, eager to do anything that might keep him at her side. Confound the fellow! he had money and a handsome old family homestead. What business had he roughing it in the cavalry, with no sud of coances of getting his head knocked off when his doting mother was so eager to have him come home, marry, settle down and take up the management of the paoperty has father had left him two years be-fore? Poor "Curly!" he could only gaze wistfully out across the drapping sarade from his seat in the derk contraction. from his seat in the dark countrions and watch the glutting of the ficelight on the Bernens parlor window. The major loved a broad fireplace and a hickory blaze, and here he had them to his heart's content for the first fime in full twenty years of army wandgrings. How must that firelight enhance the coziness and comfort of the scene within! How must it be flickering about the dark masses of her lustrous hair at

Provision has been made for the robding in Chicago at the time of the World's Fair, of a congress composed of youths of all nations of the world. Delegates will be sent, it is expected, from England, Japan, France, Germany, Norway, hweden, Spain, Austria, Italy Russ a sand countries of the Orient. These young men are to be selected from the high schools and the gramman-school grades. Their ages are to range between thirteen and twenty years. No World's Fatronyress has been thus far arranged for, it is thought, will excite more interest than this project. Foutheat the World's Pair,

The idea is to get from each country not more than front fifteen to forty or first y students. President Bonney, of the World's Congress Auxiliary, says that the topPres discussed, will touch hether upon religion nor politics. His idea is to gather in Chicago next year a representative assembly of the edicated youths of all countries. They are to be addressed by the leading educate as of the age was may be in Chicago. The scheme originated with a committee of which Franca Bellamy is Chairman. The pith of the argument for such a longress is embraced in the following paragraph from the preliminary address: liminary address

"It is felt that a garefully selected assembly of the young from all nation under such remarkable conditions as well prevail during the Columbian Expetition, cannot fail to powerfully aid thir high end. It is purposed to draw together the worthlest and most talented youth of all lands, the coming leaders of mankind, that they may be led to resilize, as could not otherwise be possible, the meaning and worth of the fellowship of nations and the brotherhood of man. In a gathering so consilitated these would certainly be some who will be called to deal decisively with the destinles of states and the serious concerns of mil ions of men. Brought thus together, and face to face with the larger relations of our insiependent humanity, those fresh minds would greatly gain in fitness for the important tasks decreed to their future. among them would be many who will surrender all who are now active on the stage of the world's affairs and who would therefore stand before the generation to follow us as witnesses of the humanizing power of the World's Exposition of 1893, and he inspired by its influence to a higher and more useful careers, making the Infiliment of its great promises their foblest claim to history.
